Credit Designation Statements:

“This activity was planned by and for the healthcare team, and learners will receive .50 Interprofessional Continuing Education (IPCE) credits for learning and change.”

Physicians:

Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center designates this enduring material for a maximum of .50 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

Disclosure & Mitigation of Relevant Financial Relationships:

None of the planners and faculty for this educational activity have relevant financial relationships to disclose with ineligible companies.

Objectives: Following this enduring material, the learner should be able to:

- Demonstrate an understanding of the definition and clinical signs/symptoms of irritable bowel syndrome.
- Demonstrate an understanding of how diet plays an integral role in IBS management.
- Apply new-found knowledge about IBS to patient care scenarios.

For first-time users of the text-in feature from your cell phone, please follow these steps:

1. Activate your profile in the TTUHSC OAICME “My Portal” if you haven't already. This step is necessary before utilizing the text-in option. Access TTUHSC OAICME “My Portal” using this link: <https://cmetracker.net/TTUHSC/Publisher?page=pubOpen&nc=7120399723#/myPortal>
2. Once your profile is activated, text your email address only to 844-984-4767 from your cell phone. You only need to do this step the first time to set up your text messaging account. Save this number on your phone for future use; it will be used for all activities to text in your attendance.
3. You'll receive a system reply indicating whether your record was located or not. If there's an issue, please follow the instructions in the reply or contact our office for assistance at 806-743-2929.
4. Upon confirmation that your email was found, you're now ready to use the new Text-In attendance feature.
5. Follow the instructions provided in the "Instructions on How to Receive Credit" form to confirm your attendance, provide an evaluation, and request credit.
